IORSE SHOW IN FULL SWING

GOOD SECOND DAY CROWD AS. SURES A SUCCESS.

Owners From Many Cities in Rivalry for the Hibbons - Hackneys Have Their Innings, but Fall to Attract us in eld Times-Pole Pontes on Show.

Placidity marked the second day of the Horse Show, rather than any great swerving and stirring of the tides. Society n the morning was faithful to the estabhed institution, and children with their vernesses and classes from the young ladies' schools with their teachers were the most prominent persons about the This is always the way. Chilbren open the show and the older folks a determined attempt to win the blue to see the bestowal of the blus orowded by country gentlemen who breed horses for fun and who very often have found that it is not a cause of profit. Over the rails they hung, arm in arm nd hand to hand, and as chummy as might be.

"Well," said one of them, "what do you think of that filly. As it stands in the ring it has cost me $2,000 and a dealer outside iss just offered me $60 for it."

There is this year a very marked rivalry ween the exhibitors from different parts of the country. There is one man, hn W. Considine, who belongs in attle. Wash., and who is an exhibitor several classes, showing among others very prominent pair formerly owned sker Maid and Dorothea. Another exor from Canada is Joseph Kilgore, a thy manufacturer of paper boxes in province. R. P. McGrann of Lan-Pa. who has just returned from London Horse Shew; Alfred Rogers Toronto, Miss Alma of the same rince, F. B. Hussey of Pittsburg. Keith of Warrentown, Va.; Cox of Toronto and Allen Archibald he St. James Club of Montreal, and se Clark, the well known gentlerider, are among others to make le Clark, although noted for his skill n the flags on thoroughbreds and ment club meetings, did not seem to d the Garden jumps to his fancy. His es refused the obstacles and acted though they were colts, as skittish as a paddock. In one class he asked the inguished gentleman rider, J. S. D'Brien, to take the mount. But Mr. D'Brien, after having acted as a severe ritic on the ring side politely but firmly dan, I homas W. Lawson, A. J. Cassatt d others favored the English hackney. Collowing the backneys came ponies, i then the horses entered in the class ladies' qualified hunters were tried or the jumps in order to weed out

The class for roadsters of the American type was practically a walkover for the entry of Edward G. Stotesbury of Philadelphia with his brown mares Lucia G. and Pearl Onward. Miss Wilkes of Canada, as in the preceding class, was second There were but four entries, but in the quality of the exhibits the horses were perhaps the best of the entire show. There was special interest in the heavy harness class for horses exceeding 15.2

hands which let in the best assortment of the amateurs. A. G. Vanderbilt had made ribbon in this class, and he showed his two bay geldings Hamlet and Hertes. that have cost him about $30,000. They are grand and big specimens of the harness horse, superb in balance and in conformation, heavy in the quarters, with massive shoulders and with well arched necks that are tapered with well formed heads. If there is a fault to be found with them it is that their front action is the best part of them. but they both have the superb well stepping action that suggest Forest King. Hertes was placed first and Hamlet second. Again in the class for four-in-hands Vanderbilt was an exhibitor and he had this pair on the wheel with Polly Prim and Pretty Peggy on the lead. They revealed then their true worth, which is to be steady, plodding carriage horses and by no means flashy carriage horses and by no means flashy actors. The winner in this class was the entry of C. W. Watson of Baltimore with the professional whip Frank Winterbottom on the box. The horses he showed were Lord Baltimore, My Maryland, Virginia and Lady Baltimore.

One of the most important classes ever seen at the New York showwas for women to ride, the conditions requiring that the horses should be 15.2 hands or over and up to carrying 160 pounds. There were fifteen contestants, the entry including the most clever women riders in this country, and after a long deliberation the judge handed the blue to Dr. Crockett, an award which was well deserved. This horse has been a frequent winner at Kentucky shows and is a master of every gait and type. American Queen, owned by the same owner and of the same type, was second, an unusual sequence. After by the same owner and of the same type, was second, an unusual sequence. After that came the horses which are more familiar to the New York bridle paths, Genee, a well balanced mare, ridden by Miss E. Rasmussen, being third, and St. Hubert, with Mrs. E. S. Beach in the saddle, being fourth. The other women who had mounts were Mrs. John Gerken, Mrs. W. H. Thompson, Mrs. A. Clements, Miss E. Holloway, Mrs. V. Grimwood, Miss Marjorie Weyler, Mrs. Ambrose Preece, Mrs. Herbert Cox, Miss Mabel Flyan, Mrs. von Klein, Miss C. Bryce and Mrs. L. A. Percival.

There was an appointment class in the refused. In the polo pony class, although it got no mert, there was a delightful exhibit of a long tailed and long maned pony from Armenia, one of the importations of the Sohinasi brothers. As far as looks go this was the grandest horse of the bunch. But in activity the Western broncos quite surpassed it.

Wonders will never cease, and in a class for little ponies there appeared not only a little stallion from Norway but also a little stallion from Norway but also a little stallion from Norway but also a little bene from from Chinecteague Island, off the Eastern Shore of Maryland. The Norwegian, a sorrel with a black stripe throughout it ee entire body, so pleased the judges that it won a fourth award, but the native pony was quite ignored. As to appointments, which is a mystic phrase to mean the proper garnishments when my lady drives through the proper strong horse of the safernoon there was but one class of this sort. It was for pairs to be shown to rictorias. There were four entries. It is a dittent to the safernoon there was but one class of this sort. It was for pairs to be shown to rictorias. There were four entries. It is a dittent to so down to the shopping alimais, but the stripe day has pair that the blue to the same pair that the blue in this class has gone for three years. The one condition is that the horses should have good manners, stand quietly and back well, and the blue proper and the proper garnishments when my lady drives through the proper garnishments when my lady drives through the proper garnishments when my lady drives through the park, there is an exact and a very exacting scale of judgments In the afternoon there was but one class of this sort. but the prize went, as it has done at every show wherever the pair has been exhibited, to C. W. Watson's My Maryland and My Maryland II.

Polo players had their innings in the last class of the afternoon and in the opening class of the evening. An imported borse, The Orphan, won in the morning, but in the evening, when the horses were tried for agility and handiness, there was a close and interesting contest. The ponies

There has been a revival of the conflict between the veterinary surgeons and the judges. Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia has shown his team of brown roadsters, Lucia G. and Pearl Onward, twice. On Monday this team won first prize for pairs and yesterday the prize for pairs and prize in the class for pairs and yesterday the prize for pairs and prize in the class also won the prize for pairs and yesterday the prize for pairs close and interest ing contest. The ponies to win a prize. One of the judges in this class was William Pollock. He expressed to the signal posts and in various tasshes toward the goal Louis E. Stoddard of the New Haven Polo Club showed great expertness in the handling of this mounts.

great expertness in the handling of this mounts.

The management looked toward this show with somewhat of fear and trembing. Last year was the worst in the history of the association since the annual exhibition struck the popular keynote, and those who are interested in the success of the undertaking were fearful whether after a setback like last year it would recover itself and prove the popular attraction it has in years past.

The ring committee took Mr. Pollock's view of the case and prevailed on him to retain his position as judge, and the judging went on, with the result that the Stotesbury pair won out. In the class on Monday A. B. Maclay's pair were placed third. Mr. Maclay was disposed to protest, but the manager of his stable succeeded in keeping him from sending the protest to the committee.

Their fears were set at rest on the opening night. Eighty per cent. of the arena

Parade Around the Boardwalk. It was a big house from the social standpoint last night. All the area boxes were filled and many of their occupants strolled around the boardwalk during part of the evening. Mrs. Oliver Harriman was one of these. She was gowned in black, wore a black hat with plumes, and her ornaments were diamonds.

Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt was another. She wore a gown of figured pink chiffon. Her ornaments were pearls and over her shoulders she had thrown a cloak of light blue velvet trimmed with chinchilla fur. Mrs. John Henry Hanan wore black and her ornaments were pearls.

Mrs. Elisha Dyer wore a costume of gray with a hat to match trimmed with feathers. Her ornaments were diamonds. Miss Swann wore a white costume and a black picture hat trimmed with plumes. Elisha Dyer and Franklin A. Plummer were in the box.

Mrs. E. R. Ladew wore a costume of purple. Miss Elise Ladew was in black and wore a black picture hat. Harvey S. Ladew and E. Berry Wall sat in the same

Mrs. Henry Siegel wore a costume of light blue with a hat to match.
In the Weatherbee box were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Weatherbee, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Potter Reid and Miss May Weather-and Leavitt J. Hunt. It was a very pleasing crowd in the afternoon; the Garden was fairly well filled for a second afternoon's performance, which pleased the management, and those who attended were pleased because the show in the ring was a par-

Their fears were set at rest on the opening night. Eighty per cent. of the arena horses were filled and there was a fair sized crowd on the boardwalk. Monday night was never a good one with the show, but the omen was good and yesterday it seemed like old times revived. The crowd it seemed like old times revived. The crowd is the afternoon was quite large and in the size room was quite large and in the diarrenoon was quite large and the way the judges disposed the ribbons.
